

FIRE CLAY ON MORE FARMS IN MORGAN BOUGHT

Harrison-Walker Corporation, one of the nation's two big refractory companies conducting exploratory operations for fire clay in Morgan county, exercised options on a number of farms in the Zag section this week.

The firm exercised options this week that it held for fire clay mining rights on these farms near Zag—H. B. Cox, Ollie Perry, Neph Cox, Claude Cox, Wendell Nickell and Earl Murphy.

Both Harrison-Walker and General Refractories have been engaged in widespread core-drilling operations in the western section of Morgan to discover and map fire clay beds.

The two firms have negotiated options on several dozen farms in the Zag and Kellacy sections. In October General Refractories purchased the fire clay on three farms totaling 456 acres in the Kellacy section for a total of $13,674. These were farms of Tom Cox, Buford Mays and W. L. Mann.

Earlier, General Refractories had purchased the 100-acre farm of D. F. Carpenter of Zag for $12,720.

Both companies are continuing their core-drilling in Morgan, indicating that there is a large bed of good fire clay underlying a wide area along the Licking River in the northwestern section of the county.

The two firms have large refractory plants in Carter county. Fire clay of the type found in Morgan is needed to manufacture fire clay brick for lining steel furnaces and other smelters for the newer type light-weight metals.

HOW TWENTYSIX POST OFFICE WAS NAMED

The Courier and many of our readers often wonder how some post offices in Morgan county were named. It would be interesting to hear from those who have heard how their office was named and other data.

For instance, Twentysix got its name because the twenty-sixth post office was named. A list of the twenty-six post offices was submitted to the post office department, with the twenty-sixth line blank. Thus, the name Twentysix was chosen.

The United States official postal guide in 1935 listed the following offices in Morgan county: Blairs Mills, Blaze, Bonny, Burg, Buskirk, Cannel City, Cottle, Crockett, Dehart, Demund, Dingus, Ebon, Elamton, Elkfork, Elma, Ezel, Floriss, Grassy Creek, Gretha, Holliday, Index, Insko, Jettah, Kellacy, Leisure, Lenox, Liberty Road, Licking River, Logville, Malone, Matthew, Maytown, Minefork, Mize, Murphyfork, Nannie, New Cummer, Nickell, Omer, Ophir, Panama, Payton, Pekin, Pomp, Redwine, Relief, Rexville, Sellers, Silverhill, Stacy Fork, Twentysix, Wells, West Liberty, White Oak, Woodsbend, Wrigley, Yocum, Zag.

No doubt, there were other post offices in the county during the days of the O. & K. and the Morehead and North Fork and Lenox Railroads. Many of the above mentioned offices have been discontinued, but the names still are used to identify communities.

HILL SORGHUM MILL HAS PRODUCED 8,400 GALLONS

Over 8,400 gallons of KAIN-TUCK SORGHUM was produced by the Blaine Sorghum Mills, Inc. at Blaine this year. This picture shows the mill in operation in October. It ran two eight-hour shifts a day for several weeks in order to process about 75 acres of cane grown by farmers of the Blaine area. Blaine is in western Lawrence county, a few miles from the Elliott county line and 34 miles from West Liberty. Farmers are shown unloading cane stalks from a tractor-drawn wagon at the mill's juicer. Unstripped stalks are run through the juicer and the juice is piped to the building where it is evaporated in a series of nine pans heated by steam coils. Smoke stack atop the steam boiler is seen at the corner of the building. Finished product was bottled in 1, 2, 5 and 10 pound glass jars and attractively labeled. Market for this product of the hills has exceeded supply. Milt Kitchen, president of the company, said.

DEVILS NIP ROWAN, LOSE TO JOHNSON 5

(By Wallace Cantrell)

The Morgan County Blue Devils were handed their third defeat of the current campaign by the Paintsville Tigers Friday at Paintsville.

The Devils jumped off to an early lead and commanded a five-point edge at half time, 36-31. In the third quarter, however, they suffered one of their worst periods as they collected just 16 points while Paintsville dumped in 31. The Devils rallied in the fourth quarter for 20 points, but that wasn't enough as Paintsville went on to win by 38-74.

The Devils' scoring was evenly distributed. Wheeler collected 24 points, Patrick 15, Elliott and Jeffery 11 each, and Bailey had 10.

The Devils played host to a pesky Morehead five here Tuesday night before a fair home crowd and romped to a 66-31 victory. The Devils jumped off to blistering pace as they couldn't seem to miss during first quarter action and they took a seemingly comfortable 29-7 lead at the first quarter. Morehead, who never seems to give up, came roaring back in the second quarter to collect 20 points and move within striking distance of the Devils.

The second half turned out to be a slow moving affair, each team seeming to grow tired and miss several easy shots, but the Devils were not to be denied the victory as they went on to win by 66-31 and their first victory in several seasons over Morehead.

Darrell Wheeler lead all scorers with 29 points. Bailey had 12 and Elliott 10.

MORGAN REQUESTS MORE ACP FUNDS

The three members of the Morgan county ASC committee met with the State ASC committee in Lexington Tuesday and asked the state committee for additional funds for Morgan county's ACP (agricultural conservation program) for 1958.

Morgan received only $47,000 for the government farmers cost-share ACP program in 1957 and had requests totaling $207,000. Joe Frank Ferguson, ASC committee chairman, said.

The state ASC committee told the Morgan group it would take their plea under consideration. Making the petition for Morgan county were Mr. Ferguson, Henry Day and Ben Cox.

Morgan ACP program for 1958 will be set up at a meeting of agricultural agency heads here Dec. 10.

"BOBIE CARPENTER" FUND TO CONTINUE AS PLANNED

Chairmen of the Bobie Carpenter Fund wish to state that the fund will continue as planned.

Patrons to the fund may make their contributions to "Bobie Carpenter Fund," General Delivery, West Liberty, Ky., or to Miss Gay Easterling at the City Hall when they pay their water bills. Others may contribute to the fund by agreeing to pay one dollar a month for a year. The fund will be used to help his family and go toward medical and other ex-

3D TOBACCO BARN BURNS SATURDAY

Fire that apparently caught from electric wires in the top of the building, destroyed the large tobacco and stock barn of Adrian Lowe on his home farm at Liberty Road last Saturday at noon.

Lowe's son, Larry, discovered the flames when he looked out a window while seated at the dinner table.

The family succeeded in getting out their tractor, truck and several cows.

Destroyed in the blaze was a crop of about 2,500 pounds of tobacco, three ewes, one cow, over 300 bales of hay and all of the farm tools except the tractor and truck.

The loss was partly covered by insurance. Mr. Lowe suffered minor burns while saving the truck and tractor and was treated by a West Liberty doctor.

Also three of the cows suffered burns but not seriously. Mr. Lowe already had marketed his tobacco from the home farm. The crop lost in the blaze was one he had tended on a nearby farm and had hauled to his barn to strip. Most of it was already stripped.

Lowe's barn was the third tobacco barn destroyed by fire in this area recently. A barn housing a 6-tenths acre crop of tobacco on the farm of Billie Prater on White Oak Branch and a barn and its contents on the farm of Walter Morgan near Yocum were destroyed by fire a few weeks ago.

FLOUR IS STILL A GOOD COMMODITY

Years ago a barrel of flour consisted of 196 pounds and was in wooden barrels. The barrel now is 200 pounds and is packed in 5, 10, 25 and 50 pound bags. Albert Barr of Lexington was in West Liberty Monday representing the Pikes Peak flour which is handled by Blair Wholesale of West Liberty. Boyd Blair said that they sold 10,000 barrels a year to merchants in their territory.

THOS. T. MOBLEY PASSES AT AGE 90; RITES WEDNESDAY

Had Served County As Representative, Supt. And Sheriff

Thomas T. Mobley, 90, retired farmer, political leader and three times an elective official of Elliott county, died Monday afternoon at his home at Bruin after a week's illness.

Mr. Mobley was born at Stark Oct. 10, 1867, two years before Elliott county was established. His father was William T. Mobley, first county surveyor of the county, appointed by Governor J. W. Stevenson. His mother was Amanda Elliott, a niece of Judge John M. Elliott, early circuit judge of this district and a noted barrister.

Active in Democratic party affairs throughout his adult life, Mr. Mobley served as party chairman a number of times and thrice was elected to public office. He was County Superintendent of Schools in Elliott county from 1898 to 1902, Sheriff of Elliott county from 1906 to 1910 and State Representative in the Elliott-Carter county district from 1913-15.

Mr. Mobley was married to Rachael Reeves of Willard, Carter county, May 15, 1889. She survives.

Also surviving are seven sons and daughters, Atty. Walter T. Mobley of Bruin; Mrs. Bessie Parsons of Bruin; Joe V. Mobley and Mrs. Ellen Rose of Frankfort; Harvey Mobley of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Lena Foley of Hazard; and Mrs. John A. Keck of Sandy Hook.

Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Martha Greene of Ashland and 20 grandchildren and 33 great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted at the Sandy Hook Methodist church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock (EST), and interment was in the Grayson Memorial Park, Grayson, under direction of Lewis & Ferguson Funeral Home.

Rev. Charles W. Vansant officiated at the rites, assisted by the pastor, Rev. Marvin Snapp. Scion of a noble line, Mr. Mobley had lived a long life and also an active one. A staunch Democrat, he had been active in party affairs most of his adult life, had served his county in various capacities and had operated a large farm.

Until recently he had enjoyed good health. He and Mrs. Mobley had observed their 68th wedding anniversary quietly last May 10, and he had observed his 90th birthday last Oct. 10, quietly.

Rev. Mayle Will Be Guest Speaker Here

Rev. Cecil Mayle of Ashland, a well-known minister of the First Church of God, will fill the pulpit at the First Church of God on Broadway Sunday morning and Sunday night.

Rev. Mayle has been guest preacher in the local church on two previous occasions. The public is invited to attend all services.

'LIFE IN THE KENTUCKY HILLS' TO BE TITLE OF BOOK BY FALLEN CAMPBELL

LIFE IN THE KENTUCKY HILLS is the title of a book scheduled to be published in 1959. The author is Fallen Campbell, a native of the Kentucky Hills. He is currently Vice President and Regional Manager of one of the leading publishing companies of the United States. Mr. Campbell spent more than twenty-five years of his employed life serving public education in his native state.

Looking backward about 150 years, the book will tell a true story of HOW and WHY the people lived as they did in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky during the period. This paper is authorized to quote from the FOREWORD of the book as follows:

"The first question which you have a right to ask me is: Is this a true story? My answer is: It is as direct as your question. It is. The names used are the names of real people who lived in authentic communities. However, in those instances where use of real names might embarrass individuals, their families, or descendants, fictitious names have been substituted. 'Life in the Kentucky Hills' can best be described as showing how typical families lived in typical mountain communities and by describing their activities and the things they used in everyday life."

There is a world of information which would demonstrate how the people of the Kentucky mountains lived during this period, information which has never been published in any form and should be recorded.

To collect this information is obviously a tremendous job, and Mr. Campbell needs help from this area. He is asking the readers of this paper to send any

AREA MEET SET IN DEVELOPMENT HERE TUESDAY

State and area officials in the Rural Development Program will meet next Tuesday with Morgan county Rural Development committee heads to plan an area workshop for the 12 counties comprising the area.

The meeting will be held at 9 a.m., Dec. 10, in the REA building in West Liberty.

Attending will be Mike Duff, University of Kentucky co-ordinator in rural development; Forest Isham, assistant director of vocational education in the State Department of Education; and Ova Ellis Boggs, Extension Service co-ordinator.

Morgan county's committee heads are: Edward Gevedon, industrial; Glenn Lacy, agricultural; Elmer Anderson, educational; and Mattie Griggsby, sociological. Rev. James Norsworthy is chairman of the county committee and Mrs. Hobart Halsey is secretary.

SPUTNIK TOPIC AT CLUB MEETING

The why and wherefore of Sputnik I and Sputnik II, satellites launched recently by Russia, was the topic of a talk given by Postmaster Wendell Nickell, former high school science teacher, at the dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club Wednesday evening.

The talk provoked a lot of interest and many Kiwanians joined in a general discussion of the man-made satellites now circling our earth.

One of the questions Mr. Nickell answered was why the satellites travel an elliptical orbit instead of a circular orbit around the earth. This is a point many people are eager to learn about. And Mr. Nickell gave science's knowledge of natural laws to explain the phenomenon. Traveling at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour, the satellite tends to shoot off into space, and goes off its circular orbit for a distance. But then the gravitational pull of the earth, pulling partly from behind the satellite, pulls it back into the orbit. Thus the elliptical orbit.

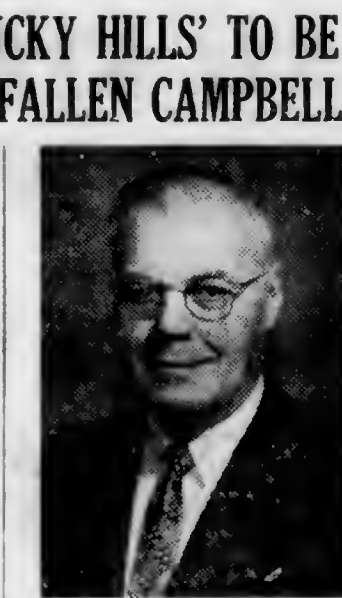

Mr. Nickell predicted that when science finds a continuous source of power, possibly from atomic energy, it seems distinctly possible for man to travel to the moon—and back. Rockets carried by the space ships and using a continuous source of power will propel the space ships and also be used in slowing the landing of the craft.

Nickell said the fact that Russia beat the U.S. in launching a satellite has served to awaken us to united and concerted action, much as did Pearl Harbor in World War II.

BURLEY AVERAGE JUMPS TO $65.46 IN TUESDAY SALE

Income In Morgan Already Has Passed $600,000 In 8 Days

Kentucky burley tobacco prices rose to an all-time one-day average high of $65.46 Tuesday of this week, but slipped back slightly Wednesday and Thursday.

Wednesday's average was $65.27, off 19c from Tuesday's high, and Thursday's average dropped 33c, down to $64.94.

But the Wednesday average was still $1.27 above last year's season average of $63.67.

The market had opened at an average of $61.36 Monday, Nov. 25 and prices continued to rise steadily until Tuesday, reaching the peak of $65.46 Tuesday.

The Federal State Marketing News Service said some grades advanced Thursday, mostly tips and heavy-bodied nondescript. These grades have been improving steadily since markets opened and averaged from $8 to $12 above opening day.

$600,260 Received Here

A total of 932 checks had cleared through the Commercial Bank here through Thursday for a total of $600,260.03. In the same eight-day period after markets opened last year only 385 checks for $268,741.16 had cleared through the local bank.

As in past years, Morgan farmers are receiving top prices for this year's crop. Several crops averaged above $67 and many have averaged in the $66 and $65 range.

Observers now predict that Morgan's income this year from burley will be two million dollars, possibly more. This will be considerably above last year's total income. The additional income is due majorly to heavier weight and higher market prices.

Some high crops from Morgan during the first 7 days of selling follow:

122 Children Approved For Adoption By State

During the first 10 months of this year, 122 Kentucky children were approved for adoption by the Children's Service Division of the State Department of Economic Security.

Commissioner V. E. Barnes said these children had lived in homes of their adoptive parents for a minimum of three months.

In these 122 instances, the division reported its approval to the courts. During the 10 month period, courts have issued 83 adoption judgments on children placed by the division, Barnes said.

For the same period, Barnes reported that additional 130 children were placed in adoptive homes. Following stays by these children of three months or more with their prospective adoptive parents, the division will notify the courts of recommendations for adoption.

The division approved 155 "suitable adoptive homes" during the period, he said.

"Increased emphasis on adoptive services of the department and stepped up activity in home placements of children available for adoption has decreased our roster of prospective parents," Barnes said. He suggested that parents seeking to adopt children, register their wishes with the Department's Children Division.

TOBACCO FLOODED IN HOPKINSVILLE AREA

A letter received by Director George L. Johnson of the Division of Weights and Measures from two inspectors of the division who witnessed the havoc created by the flooding Little River at a burley sales warehouse at Hopkinsville:

"We agree that it was about as bad as anything could be, short of human suffering and death. Now, go with us to a large tobacco warehouse containing 450,000 pounds of burley awaiting the first sale. See it today, jostled and tossed about by the surging waters of the Little River, baskets on top of baskets, some turned over with black streams of nicotine running everywhere and standing in puddles on the floor."

"Now go with us behind locked doors where the owner and his staff debate and ponder what can be done. What is the best way to proceed. Many suggestions are made but each seems to lead to a dead end. It was very noticeable and pleasing to note that the owner, Mr. McConnell, always kept the interest of the owners of the tobacco foremost in his thinking."

"Now go with us out on the floor where some 150 to 200 farmers, including a number of women, are searching around trying to find their particular crop. Their faces are drawn and sad. We were sad too, realizing that to many the crop of tobacco was the only hope for a brighter Christmas."

BURIAL PERMIT NOTICE
Burial permits are required in Kentucky for burial of each and every deceased person. These are obtained from the County Health Department office and may be obtained by presenting a statement from the attending physician or from the coroner in case no physician was in attendance.

Dec. 12—Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Smith over the week end: Mrs. Wanda Tackett and daughter Lorraine of Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. James Hammond of Cottle.

Elder and Mrs. Addie Ferguson and son Raymond of Moon were our welcome guests last Friday.

Rufus Hutchinson and son of Crockett were here over the week end doing some repair work on the gas line for yours truly.

Thanks, Mrs. Nora Easterling of Florress, for your compliment in last week's Courier. I wonder if you were present when your sister, Mrs. Elisha Burk's funeral was preached by Elders Caleb Spencer and myself, near the residence of Denny Mullins of Elamton, in the shade of some sugar trees, which had been left there by Uncle James Ferguson.

Elder Spencer preached from Isaiah, 40th chapter and second verse. Can you tell how long it has been?

Elder A. C. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bradley and Wendell Bradley of Dingus and Mrs. Della Legg of Opbir were called to Ashland last week on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Ed C. Williams, who is a sister of A. C. and W. T. and Mrs. Legg. They report Stella ill with cancer.

Mrs. Dorothy Blevins and children of West Liberty are visiting with Mrs. Blevins' parents, Elder and Mrs. D. W. Beuchimer.

Elder D. W. Beuchimer was called in the funeral of Mrs. Marion Day of New Boston, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Bradley and family visited last week at Fairborn, Ohio and at Middletown, Ohio as guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Beuchimer.

Elder and Mrs. D. W. Beuchimer attended church at Paint Valley the fourth Sunday.

Kelly Smith is visiting with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Smith of Amarilla, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Smith have installed a bathroom in their model residence.

DEHART

Mrs. Anna Byrd and Rosa Byrd of Greenup visited Mr. and Mrs. Luther Byrd the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. John Byrd and sons also visited Mr. and Mrs. Luther Byrd and Mr. and Mrs. Holly Nipper.

Mrs. Grace (McClure) Cisco of Wrigley visited Mr. and Mrs. George Peyton Sunday.

Week end guests of the L. L. Wards were Mr. and Mrs. James Nickell and daughters Barbara and Jami Nickell of Dayton, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Ward and children of Dayton, O., Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Peyton and Mrs. Goldie (Fugett) Miller of Middletown, Ohio, were Sunday dinner guests.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Cisco called on Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cottle also.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Peyton visited relatives here and at West Liberty over the week end.

Arnold and Edsall Smith who spent a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith, returned to Ohio where they are employed.

Mrs. Frank Sheets of West Liberty visited Mrs. Dora Cottle Sunday.

Mrs. Louella Fannin who broke her arm a few weeks ago, was in Lexington to a bone specialist recently.

Paul Riggsby and wife are staying at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dehaven.

About three-fifths of the cranberry crop comes from Cape Cod, Mass. New Jersey and Wisconsin are also important in the production of this crop.

MAGOFFIN MAN WRITES AUTOBIOGRAPHY

(Salyersville Independent)
Judge Ben Moore native of Magoffin county and now Federal District Judge for the Southern District of West Virginia has written a book telling of his early experience in Magoffin county, his schooldays at Magoffin Institute and his rise from this humble beginning to one of the highest positions in the legal profession.

We follow him from his family life on Burning Fork, in what he fondly portrays as the "real backwoods" of a half-century ago, through his experiences in the commercial world, as a bank employee, streetcar and land company bookkeeper, and "correspondence school lawyer" to his venture in politics and election as Judge of the Common Pleas Court of Kanawha County, W. Va. (an office similar to our Circuit Judge) and his eventual appointment to the Federal bench.

The latter half of the book deals with some of the cases which have come before him on the federal bench, with analyses of the cases themselves and his instructions to juries.

The entire volume of 273 pages should be interesting to every young man in Magoffin county, showing as it does the opportunity for those of native wit and intelligence to make good in their read with interest by those who lead with interest by those who can recall the period of a half century ago in Magoffin county's history.

Judge Moore is a brother of Albert K. Moore, editor of the Independent.

The book entitled "Heritage of Freedom," is published by T. S. Denison and Co., of Minneapolis, Minn., and sells at $3.50 per copy.

We have a limited number on sale at the Independent office.

Columbia University educators have described the perfect child, but no parents are likely to be so unfortunate as to have him.

FAMILY SIZE FARMS
BEING SQUEEZED OUT

A House subcommittee which is studying the problems of family farmers was told at a Minnesota hearing that the soil-bank program apparently is helping to push small farmers off their farms.

The Rev. Edward C. Ramacher, rural life director for the Catholic diocese at St. Cloud, Minn., told the committee a recent study of 16 counties in that diocese showed a loss of 5,605 farm units in the past five years. St. Cloud is in the rich dairying area of central Minnesota.

"It would appear that some features of the soil-bank program did not help curb this loss of the family-size farm," he told the committee.

"On the contrary, the soil bank aided the trend toward a loss of family-size farms, since many farms were absorbed by landowners who live in town and placed idle acres in the soil bank.

"In the past 25 years, too much legislation has been passed to help the landowner and not enough passed to benefit the small, family-size farm which is the backbone of the nation."

He suggested that serious consideration be given to a plan for financial assistance to young men who want to start family farms.

THERE ARE ADVANTAGES IN BEING A GOOD LISTENER

Are you a good listener? The average person is only a "half listener." Even when he tries, he retains only about 50 per cent of what he hears right after he hears it.

But there are advantages in being a good listener. Dr. Ralph G. Nichols and Leonard A. Stevens of the University of Minnesota in an October Reader's Digest article, "Are You Listening?" It is material from their book of the same title being published by McGraw-Hill.

"Concentration is more than half the battle," they say. "A good listener fights distraction. He will close a door . . . Move closer to the person talking . . . interrupt only when it is necessary to clear up a point."

"One of the reasons for paying close attention . . . is simply that it is courteous to do so. But there is a selfish reason too . . . The way you listen has a great control over the way people talk to you. Intelligent listening on your part helps the speaker . . . gives you information that you may need. How you listen has a direct bearing on what you learn."

Becoming a good listener, the authors say, also makes you a better, more interesting speaker yourself.

"Just as you will get more fun and reward from listening," they conclude, "so other people will get more out of what you have to say."

If men behaved after marriage as they do during courtships, there wouldn't be half as many divorces—but there would be twice as many bankruptcies.

Most folks say that a nice girl shouldn't hold a man's hands. Our theory is—that a nice girl HAS to hold a man's hands.

Sign on a big trailer truck, slowly climbing Index Hill: "Don't hug me. I'm going steady."

Girls, don't let that gleam in our eyes fool you—it's caused by the sun hitting our bifocals.

Why Can't the sexes admit that they are equally different and differently equal, if that means

A woman is as young as she looks. True. But not always as young as she thinks she looks.—Emily Post.

IN OL' MORGAN

University of Kentucky, spent from Wednesday to Saturday in Morgan county observing farming methods and farm life. He was a guest in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Russ at Ezel while in Morgan.

"Family life is so wholesome in Morgan county," he thought it would be poor," Ericsson told the Courier Saturday. "And too it's hard to realize how easily people are accepted here. People are so friendly. Your opportunities for a fine life are great," he added.

Ericsson, graduate of the University of Stockholm and a former reporter on a small Swedish daily newspaper in central Sweden, wanted to see how a county seat weekly paper is produced. He was The Courier's guest for 24 hours, and very pleasant 24 hours. Ericsson, ruddy-faced and blond haired, is the typical Swede. He is majoring in sociology at U. K. and is an interesting conversationalist. He told us he had hitch-hiked over most of Scotland and England; and had toured France, Belgium, Spain, Germany, Holland and Denmark on a "scooter," which is a small two-wheeled vehicle much used in Europe. But hitch-hiking is better on meats and talks to so many more people," he said.

Rev. Russ and County Agent Carl Sinclair had taken him on a tour of Morgan county farms Friday. He seemed greatly impressed with the farms and took him to West Liberty to visit the seat of county government and the newspaper plant.

MORGAN MAN IS MISSING IN BATH

(By Chloe Johnson)

The community is still shocked with the disappearance of Ray Cox from his home Thursday morning. A number of men have been searching the wooded area in which he was last seen, but no trace of him as yet has been found. Mr. Cox was formerly from Morgan county.

Several from Morgan have been in the vicinity hunting, namely: Bee Pelfrey and a friend, Hager Davis, Reynold Brown and party; also Roland Conley of Salsersville. Chloe Johnson and son-in-law, George McGlothlin, were in Morgan Monday seeking employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Harper and three sons of West Liberty and friends at Ore Mines and Olympia Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Tyree of Argus Smith were calling on Jeffersonville and Mrs. Katy Tyree of Mt. Sterling visited their brother, Kelly Johnson and family last Sunday.

You, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Vance, Mr. Vance has been in poor health for some time. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Vance, Betty Cline and son, Mrs. Ledford Vance, Helbo Hosenback and Mrs. L. L. Madison in Leitchfield, during Veterans Day week end, drove over to Rough River to view the big dam under construction. That evening we drove to Smith Grove to visit Mrs. Madison's mother, then on to Bowling Green. It is a beautiful city at night, all lit up with beautiful neon signs. We returned home Monday. The following weekend we drove to Bowling Green, Ohio, to visit Mr. Skaggs' daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gibson. The week end of Oct. 23 we went to Rock House church. We heard Revs. Smith Elam, Arthur Johnson, Dudley Williams and Wick Kennard preach. We have been quite busy and enjoyed every minute of it.

Mr. Mary Isen is seriously ill at this time. Her visitors Sunday included: Mrs. Delzie Skaggs of East Chicago, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Ray Olson of Blaine, Mrs. Gar Ferguson and four children, Mrs. W. A. Ferguson and your writer.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Skaggs and son Gale of Trotwood, Ohio, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Olson, Blaine, Mrs. Gar Ferguson and four children, Mrs. W. A. Ferguson and your writer.

Home Agent Gives Hints On Safety In Home At Yuletide

During the holiday season one family in Morgan county will probably find themselves homeless due to a fire. Many of the fires are caused by improper use of extension cords and overloaded outlets.

Every year some one places aluminum foil on Christmas tree lights to make them light. This is very dangerous to do and may cause a fire. One safe rule to follow is never to leave the room with Christmas tree lights on.

Sometimes when the family is eating or at the barn a fire is started and destroys the house before help can be secured.

Care of The Christmas Tree
Count your tree in water, place a sheet or cloth on the floor before putting your tree down and this will help in cleaning up.

Check all lights before they are strung on the tree for safety.

ASC Local Officials Enjoy Steak Dinner Given By Chairman

Joe Frank Ferguson of Grassy Creek, chairman of the Morgan ASC Committee, entertained at a steak dinner at Stamper's last Friday noon. Guests included members of the county ASC committee, chairman of the community committees, ASC office personnel and friends.

The dinner followed Mr. Ferguson's re-election as county ASC chairman for 1958.

Rev. Claude McClure of Indianapolis, brother-in-law of Mr. Ferguson, spoke the invocation. Mr. Ferguson received a number of compliments for his valued work as ASC chairman and he discussed the tobacco program for 1958.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, Rev. and Mrs. Claude McClure, Mrs. Eula Gevedon, Robert Cox, Glenn Oldfield, Ben Cox, Russell Fanning, Chalmers Prater, Henry L. Day, F. F. Gevedon, Walter Oldfield, Charley Perry, H. G. Young, Ollie Yiffe, Ralph Hamilton, Mrs. Dixie C. Brown and Earl W. Kinner.

MEALISTERS DELAYED
Rev. Glen McAlister, who was scheduled to begin duties as pastor of the West Liberty First Church of God the first of this month, will not be able to arrive here as planned due to illness of Mrs. McAlister. Mrs. McAlister will undergo major surgery in an Austin, Texas, hospital, and when she is able, the McAlisters will return to West Liberty.

Daughters Assist At OES Initiations Of Mr. and Mrs. Haney

Mr. and Mrs. Globel Haney of Cannel City received the degrees of the Order of Eastern Star at the regular meeting of Paulina chapter at the Masonic Hall Monday night. LICKING RIVER

(By Pearl Lewis)
Nov. 28—Not much news from Licking River as people are very busy preparing their tobacco for market and some are busy hunting.

Mrs. John W. Cassidy of Leisure was a recent guest of Mrs. Floyd Fugate.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Whitten and little daughter of Michigan are spending their vacation with her father, Melvin Wells and wife and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. L. U. Jenkins of Dayton, O., visited Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wells recently.

Charles Short and Voley Day went to Lexington Monday for the opening of tobacco sales.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Josh Endicott were Mr. and Mrs. James Adkins of Elkfork, Mr. and Mrs. John Endicott and children of West Liberty.

Rev. and Mrs. G. C. Allen, Mrs. Math Lewis and Mrs. Floyd Fugate were in Campton on business Monday.

Cut-shine and Hell-fer-sartin are both confluents of Middle Fork of the Kentucky River near Dry Ridge.

BARBERS IN THAILAND WRITE OF WARES AVAILABLE IN BANGKOK STORES

The following excerpts taken from the letters written by Major Wm. Barber and wife Ione, who are with the U. S. Marine Service in Bangkok, Thailand, will appeal to the fair sex inasmuch as they describe the wares that stores in Bangkok have to offer shoppers. The letters are sent to Mrs. Mabel C. Carter, who passes them on to members of her family—

Bangkok, Thailand
October 4, 1956

Perhaps you'd like to hear a little about what Bangkok has to offer. The Thai silk is beautiful, but expensive even in Bangkok—but I wish that some of you would price it in Cincinnati, Dayton or Lexington! The silk is all hand loomed; comes in several weights; many, many colors and brocades. The price varies from $3 to $7 per yard.

The matching ties and cummerbunds for men are beautiful—especially the plaids. And the stoles are usually heavily interwoven with the opal, ruby, garnet, cat's eye, blue sapphire and brown sapphire. The others can be either zircons or diamonds. The prices range from about $40 and up, depending on one's bargaining powers.

Our car arrived September 18. The day Bill drove into our yard with it, I was in the kitchen with the cook. She dropped everything and ran to the open window, yelling something in Thai to the rest of the servants. It was a time for them, but they all shot out of their quarters and were lined up for a good look. The car had quite a rough trip—fenders all scratched, which required an immediate paint job. Well, any- way, we now have a Bangkok "Cadillac" to add to the traffic congestion.

Have the TV working now. The reception is good; about 75 percent advertising. Programs are shown every other night and most of them are Thai. On Saturday nights "Rin Tin Tin" is shown, and that is the only program the children watch.

The receptions, cocktail parties and dinners continue with increasing regularity. Some of them are events that long will be remembered. The Thai Air Marshal recently gave a birthday party for himself—350 invited guests. He opened his palatial home and grounds for this big affair, and being it is located on one of the navigable klungs with a private pier, Commander McGonagle decided we would all go by boat. Eight couples boarded it for the half hour trip—and it was delightful traveling that way because in the complete darkness none of the pathetic poverty was visible. At the party an orchestra was playing beside the specially built dance floor, and as we passed through the receiving line, signed the guest book, presented our gifts, a card was immediately given us in which the Marshal expressed his thanks for the gift and our presence at his party.

Then we were escorted through the home, which was completely filled with floral gifts and gazed at all the priceless, ornate, imported furniture and collections. In a private room such luxurious formality, I couldn't pass the living room curtains without notice because of their utter incongruity. They had little kitchen cafe curtains at the windows. The Thais take a fancy to many American things and use them with complete disregard of appropriateness. Of course they laugh at us for keeping potted plants in our homes because in Thailand that is the mark of a "coolie" home. About nine o'clock the tables were set up and laden with food for a buffet supper. In another part of the compound was a soup concession, where servants were preparing huge vats of it over the charcoal stoves.

Before going to the party Bill and I fortified ourselves by taking 3 sulfaguanadine pills and we ate all the food without any ill effects. But, 26 Americans were at the dispensary the next day for medication. I suppose for a party that size, the Thais do not have adequate refrigeration for such large amounts of food which have to be prepared days in advance—and some of it becomes tainted. In addition—a genuine Thai or Chinese dinner is truly a gastronomic venture.

The last Chinese dinner we had was a 10 course affair. Shark fin soup with crab roe—very tasty, but I kept thinking of our crabbing expedition in N.C. and how I almost sickened while cleaning the yellow roe from the bottoms of the female crabs. Birds nest soup with pigeon eggs—considered a choice delicacy but also food for thought. Roast suckling pig. The wee little thing lay on the platter with nothing missing but the entrails—the eyes had been replaced with two tiny lighted bulbs. The only part eaten is the skin, which had been delightfully seasoned and roasted real crisp, like cracklings. Very good.

The food we've had in Thai homes, at small parties, has been excellent. And many of them even boil the water.

Must save something to write about next time, and anyhow, the day is just about over. This is our one night at home this week, and the cook is fixing fried prawns with rice. She has also prepared a dessert which is definitely local—custard made with coconut milk and steamed in the coconut shells. Bill and I like it, but the children still prefer good old hamburgers.

individually poured into the cast; then the design on the handle is stamped with a hand press and the horn handle added; after which each piece passes through the hands of about eight different people who file off the rough edges and do the polishing. The workers sit on the ground, in the crudest of shacks that can't possibly keep out the rain—so there are mud puddles everywhere. The women work side by side with the men, and many of them have their little babies in cradles that are suspended from the ceiling—with one hand she works, and occasionally reaches out with the other to keep the cradle swinging.

Many tourists like to shop for precious stones—the men seem to prefer the black star sapphire. I have no deep interest in any of them, but would like to leave Bangkok with a Princess ring because it is so distinctively Siamese. About 15 jewels are set in the shape of the Royal crown—7 of them are always the same and the rest are rubies, garnets, cat's eye, blue sapphire and brown sapphire. The others can be either zircons or diamonds. The prices range from about $40 and up, depending on one's bargaining powers.

November 15, 1956
Last night the temperature took a sudden drop, and we all awakened this morning with the sheets pulled high around our shoulders. The cool breeze is like Mana from heaven.

The rains have nearly stopped, and our compound is finally getting dry. About two weeks ago we had a cloudburst which put about 8 inches of water in our basement! The servants had to carry all the trunks and storage boxes outdoors to dry in the sun—what a mess! About the same time we also discovered termites in one of the teakwood wardrobes—they had eaten nearly all of Sharon's games. Over here, they are called "white ants" (look like maggots), and Somsri told me that when they get into a house, they can destroy it in about two years. When I called the landlord and told him there were white ants in the house—both his wife and an exterminator came out the next day. Normally, it has taken him six weeks to two months to act on our requests—so from now on, I know what to yell if I want his prompt appearance.

The children have had slight colds. I know it must sound strange to speak of having colds in this tropical climate, but it is a very common ailment among the Thais.

In October, there was a big SEATO maneuver in Thailand, which brought many dignitaries and several American ships into the port of Bangkok. There was a reception given by the Prime Minister at Government House for the U. S. Navy and Thai armed forces. There must have been about 60 Marine officers present, and I had a wonderful time trying to say "hello" to all of them. I felt as though every single one was a dear friend.

And when the Prime Minister proposed a toast to the U. S. Navy Forces, I was afraid the tears were going to roll down my cheeks while the Royal Thai Navy Band played "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Our sightseeing expedition at the time General Pate was here took us to several new places. The Old Palace and grounds are very ornate and filled with much dignity, ceremony and splendor. This is the same place that Anna served as governess for the King's children. The present King does not live in the old palace—it is now used mainly for worship, coronations and an object for tourists.

The famous Emerald Buddha Temple is located within the grounds, and I'm sure if we "farangs" could understand even a little of the contents in that temple, we would have a much better understanding of the Thai people. No cameras are permitted in the temple, and we had to remove our shoes before entering.

The temples or wats are everywhere in Bangkok. Another spectacular one that we visited was The Reclining Buddha. This is a massive solid bronze statue about 12 feet long, and completely gold plated.

At sometime during the life of every Buddhist male he must enter the Priesthood. It is a period in which he renounces the world and spends his time in worship and thought. He has his head shaved; dons a saffron colored robe. His only estate with the outside world is during the mornings when he goes from place to place begging for food. The main reason for mentioning this now is that the King of Thailand just completed six weeks in the priesthood. During that time he placed his Queen on the throne as ruler.

Oct. 30, I attended a fashion show sponsored by the Thai Women's Club for the Child Welfare Foundation. It was a beautiful production—sports clothes, street and cocktail and evening dresses—all made from the local Thai silk.

The models were Thai, American and French—all having the most fantastically slender

The Queen was present which also added to the attraction. She is a beautiful young woman, and so gracious. She sat on a semi-throne, with her ladies-in-waiting on either side; and other members of the royalty seated near, I respect and admire all the traditions of the Thai people regarding their royal family except for one thing. Something inside me cringes when I see servants approach the King and Queen practically crawling on their hands and knees.

Nov. 3 was the Charity Ball for the blind, at which the Queen was again present and the King was in the Priesthood. This was held at Amphorn Gardens on the Royal grounds. The Queen did not participate in any of the dancing; just sat on her throne all evening and watched the events. Toward the close of the event she was to present the first four prizes to members of the audience. The Army Attache's wife and I were asked to take the gifts up to the Queen. We were given large gold bowls in which to carry the prizes (nothing is ever handed directly to Her Majesty); then had to walk the length of the ballroom and curtsy twice before stepping up to the throne.

The children went "trick or treating" Halloween night. We sent the gardeners along for protection while they circled our block. Most of the families are American or European, and they contributed generously with the treats. Our servants were fascinated by the costumes and the meaning of the night.

The cook with the Fort Knox dentures is no longer with us. I discharged her at the end of the first month, but she begged so hard to be given another month's trial that I weakened. By the end of that time she was preparing some very good food, but she had decided to leave—something about "saving face," because all the neighborhood servants had found out that I didn't like her cooking at first.

Tried to get another cook, and many came to see me, but when they saw that I have an indoor kitchen they didn't want to stay. Most of the Thai homes have kitchens completely removed from the main house, and with such an arrangement, they usually go ahead with the cooking without any supervision from "Madam." And with such an attitude I suspect the cooks must do many things of which "Madam" might not approve.

I discovered that my number 1 girl is a good cook, so with a little raise in wages she is now handling both jobs.

One day while I was gone, our wash man got her hand caught in the washing machine wringer and ran it in up to her elbow. None of the servants knew how to release the wringer, so they had put it into reverse and run the arm back through it; then taken her to the hospital for treatment. Fortunately no bones were broken.

Every Thai home has a small "spirit house" within the compound, and whenever illness strikes or some other kind of misfortune falls to the servants, they keep it well filled with offerings—mostly flowers. The little house is visible from our bedroom and when I see fresh decorations in it, I'm apprehensive until I pry around a bit and learn what is wrong. One morning it was gay looking with bright red curtains and an expensive looking lei draped on the front. I wondered what dire calamity had happened during the night—Somsri told me the coolie girl had a bad dream and they had to do that to keep the dream from coming true.

Bill is going to Tokyo the last of this month for his annual physical examination and will be gone 10 days. All Navy personnel have to be examined by Navy doctors and being there is none here he gets a trip. I had considered going with him to do Christmas shopping—but we have a better plan being the children also want to see Japan.

Military dependents here rate one free trip each year to any country on the itinerary—so we are going to wait until the spring school vacation (April) when we can all go together.

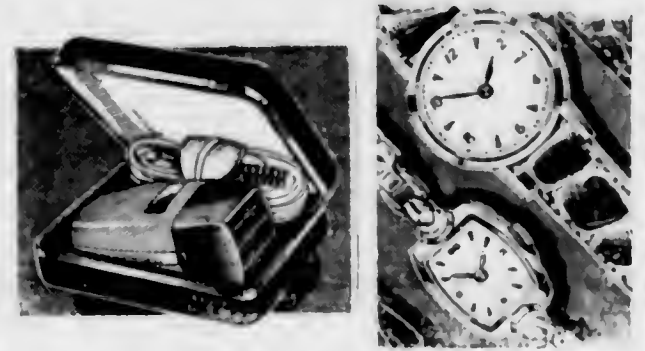

John is now playing with a Little League baseball team some of the American fathers have recently organized. And he also belongs to the Cub Scouts, so I can safely say that he is as busy as any stateside American boy. The turkey shipment is due in this week for Thanksgiving. We are having the staff from Bill's office for dinner Thanksgiving day.

Christmas is approaching so fast. The Post Exchange has opened a little Toyland where we can shop for the children, but it seems so strange to be doing that in October and November because I've always been a last minute shopper, needing the hustle and bustle of the holiday season to get me moving.

Prestonsburg, the oldest settlement in the Big Sandy Valley, was first known as Preston Station, named for Col. John Preston surveyor from Augusta county, Virginia, who camped there in 1791.

OMER

(By Julia Williams)

Dec. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Jones of Lexington are spending several days at their place here.

The writer was very happy to have two of her sons home from Ohio Thanksgiving. Drexel and family came Wednesday night and brought a turkey so we had baked turkey, pumpkin pies and chocolate cake for dinner. Milford Williams and family spent a few days with the writer and the J. C. Carpenters.

Arnold Nickell had the misfortune to get the end of his finger cut off at his sawmill one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McGuire of Lexington were Saturday night guests of his mother, Cora Watson.

Rev. and Mrs. Heykoop spent Thanksgiving with their son Don and wife. He is in service in Georgia.

Mrs. Fern McKinney is at the home of her father. Her husband Waco McKinney will go to Europe for Army service.

SGT. ROTHWELL IN JAPAN
JOHNSON AIR BASE, Japan—Staff Sergeant William D. Rothwell, husband of Bessie Rothwell of Frenchburg, Ky., is at Johnson Air Base for assignment in 6303d Maintenance Squadron of 6041st Bombardment Wing (Tactical), a unit of Fifth Air Force; the command responsible for protecting Japan and South Korea from surprise air attack.

During his tour of duty, Sgt. Rothwell will have an opportunity to study the Japanese people and to visit many of the scenic and historical areas of Japan.

A graduate of Frenchburg High school in class of 1948, Sgt. Rothwell entered the Air Force in 1948. He comes to Johnson from Delaware, Ohio.

Those attending from Morgan County were Paul Williams and a car full of FFA boys; Carl Sinclair, county agent, and Berlyn Brown, SCS.

Tree orders received to date by the Morgan County SCD are 30,000 Scotch pine from Wentzel Bros., Ezel, Henry A. Stovall, of Hazel Green, 5000 shortleaf pine.

Stocks of tree seedlings are going fast and if you plan to plant any next spring you should get your order in now.

ACP cost sharing on tree planting this year will again be $16 per acre. Most trees cost $7.00 per thousand. Scotch pine and red cedar for Christmas trees are $10.00 per thousand.

AN ORDINANCE

AN ORDINANCE LEVYING A TAX TO BE PLACED IN A SPECIAL FUND FOR PURCHASE OF A NEW FIRE TRUCK

WHEREAS, the fire truck and equipment now in use by the City of West Liberty has been in use for a period of sixteen years; and WHEREAS, the officials of said city have been officially notified that when said equipment has been used for a period of twenty years, that the same will be condemned and that upon failure to replace the same, the insurance rates for all property within the city of West Liberty will thereby be increased; and WHEREAS, an emergency has arisen in connection with the same and in order to provide a fund for the purchase of new fire equipment at the expiration of the present equipment used over a twenty-year period, the City Council of the City of West Liberty, does ordain as follows:

SECTION I. There is hereby levied a tax of 15c for every $100.00 assessed valuation of property within the city limits of the City of West Liberty in addition to the tax rate now in force upon all property, both real and personal, subject to taxation by said City.

SECTION II. The tax imposed by Section I herein shall be assessed and become payable and collected on the 1958 taxes given for the City of West Liberty.

SECTION III. The proceeds from the tax levy imposed herein shall be placed in a separate fund from the other taxes received by said City, said fund to be known as the Fire Truck Fund, to be used for the purchase of a new fire truck for the City of West Liberty.

SECTION IV. This ordinance shall take effect when signed, recorded and published, as required by law.

Passed and approved by a unanimous vote of the City Council of the City of West Liberty at the regular meeting of the City Council held on the 2nd day of December, 1957.

Campaign Begins To Alert Drivers

A new campaign to alert highway users to the dangers of the road has been started by Commissioner of Public Safety Don Sturgill.

Sturgill is asking all newspapers, radio and television stations to stress a different safety slogan each day. The campaign ends December 31.

The slogan campaign, Sturgill said, is part of the concerted year end accident prevention drive in an effort to decrease the number of fatalities which normally are high during the holiday period.

Preaches Two Funerals

Rev. H. T. Morris was called Tuesday to be in the funeral of Jeff Haney at the Potter Chapel in West Liberty. On Thursday Rev. Morris was called to preach the funeral of Ova Nickell at the Adele church at Insko.

Gone To Cincinnati

Troy Blankenship is spending the winter with his children in Cincinnati.

The flu has been in several homes in this community. Your correspondent was confined to bed part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey have moved from the John Bailey property to the Lula Williams property on Little Caney.

Mrs. Jim Adams has been in Middletown, Ohio, for the past two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Denval Williams who is ill. Mr. and Mrs. James Manning of Germantown, Ohio were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ren Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodford Oney of Middletown, Ohio, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cooper Saturday.

Revs. Warrle Bailey of Salyersville, Virgil Oney of Menifee county and Clyde Bailey of Royalton preached at the Brushy Fork church Saturday night. At the Sunday morning services the speakers were Revs. Carlos Purph of Guage, Roy Coffey of Bloomington and Oliver France of Morrow, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Barker and children of Middletown, O., were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Benton.

Most of the people in this community are doing stripping tobacco and several loads have been taken to market.

New Zealand in 1955 consumed 466 pounds of milk per capita, says the National Milk Producers Federation; U. S. consumption was 400 pounds.

$85 From Benefit Party
Will Go To Polio Fund

Approximately 40 persons attended the benefit card party for polio last Friday night at Elam's dining room. Everyone enjoyed the occasion, with many people winning valuable prizes. The prizes were donated by West Liberty merchants with the exception of a Sunbeam coffee maker, which was given by Ben Williamson Co. of Ashland. Chances on the coffee maker were sold, with $32.00 being realized. A total of $85.00 was turned over to the polio fund.

Mrs. Mack Lewis and Mrs. J. Blaine Nickell, co-chairmen, wish to thank everyone for helping especially the merchants and Ben Williamson Co.

Whitt Writes of a Visit to Turkey Pen Knob; Also Tells History of Mordicae, Redwine, Grassy Creek

Can See As Far
As Owingsville
From Wolf Knob

By Bernard E. Whitt

"Acres of Diamonds" is the story of a man who sold his farm and went to a far country hunting for diamonds. The man who purchased his farm found diamonds in every acre of it. In fact, the Kimberly diamond mines are said to be located on the very farm he sold.

I often think that we run away from wealth and happiness elsewhere, when in fact they are in our own backyard.

I am more certain of this recently since I have been hunting and rambling over the hills in Morgan county. In this story I want to tell you something of three or four districts or communities where lately I have been hunting and crawling up branches and ravines looking for squirrels.

Grassy Creek

One of the most beautiful parts of Morgan county is Grassy Creek from the old school building at the foot of the hill and up the creek. The road is blacktopped up the creek and across to Maytown and is really beautiful. Most of the hill land is in grass and fine cattle can be seen grazing in the fields.

Passing the homes of Walter Bach, J. B. Murphy, John Oldfield, White Henry, Ray Cox, Kelly Perry, Curt Jackson and Carl Murphy, one will see good barns and nice residences.

I parked my car below Curt Jackson's and took to the hills. Not far from the road a rabbit jumped up in the pines and ran away. Across the hill on Carl Murphy's farm I saw four squirrels running on the ground and jumping in the trees as I slipped over the top of a hill.

I had always thought that the red squirrels and gray squirrels were enemies. However, a red squirrel and a gray squirrel were playing together in an old tree. I watched them for some time and they were very friendly. After a few minutes the red squirrel jumped into another tree and the gray squirrel followed. I shot the red squirrel and the gray squirrel jumped to the ground and ran away.

Thanksgiving Day I parked my car at Curt Jackson's and walked across the branch to Ray Cox's home. Two dogs took after me and Mrs. Cox came out to protect me and said that Ray's mother me and said that Ray's mother up the Elkfork to the old school house near the mouth. The school at one time had about sixty pupils. There are now perhaps a dozen and they come to West Liberty. The school has been abandoned.

If you would like to go to a silent and desolate forest, go up Mordicae. Here is an area of twenty-five hundred or three thousand acres, a distance of four miles where no human being lives and the area is rarely ever seen by anyone.

Wednesday I left my car at Mart Ison's who lives at the Gon Walsh place now owned by C. K. Stacy, Custer Jones and Walter Gardner. Mrs. Ison told me I could drive about two miles to the next house. However, I preferred to walk. I went up each of the branches as I came to them looking for squirrels.

For the last three or four years sawmills have been cutting the timber and about all that is left now is some scrub oak, beech and underbrush. The tops and limbs of trees that were cut for lumber covers the ground and one can only crawl through the underbrush and travel up small haul roads. If forest fires should break out in this region, it would be a raging inferno.

There must be sixty or seventy-five acres of bottom land up the creek, which has been cleared and cultivated.

I saw tracks of all kinds of wild animals in the branches, and this certainly would be a good place to bear and other wild animals.

Custer Jones asked the other night, "What should be done with the land since the timber is gone? There is coal in the area. It would be a good place to graze cattle and sheep if it was cleared and fenced. Some day labor and machinery may be available and there may be need for the land to raise livestock for food. As the population increases some of this submarginal land may become necessary to feed the people.

We now have only about two and a half acres of land for each person.

Turkey Pen Knob

The next day I left my car at Randolph Walsh's at the mouth of Indian Creek and went up the point to the top of the ridge between Mordicae and the creek. Several years ago a wagon ran from the top of the hill around the ridge to the Redwine road and men hauled logs and lumber to the railroad.

This was a distance of about four miles. There is only a little path now and I followed it to "Turkey Pen Knob." I had started to the high knob of Mordicae but it was too far to walk. Turkey Pen Knob is a high knob and at one time there were trap pens built around it to catch wild turkeys.

Ora Trimble who lives not far from "Turkey Pen Knob," says that Tom Keeton, who was one of the first settlers, killed the last turkey gobbler near the top of the knob. He used a rifle and shot it a distance of about 150 yards.

Ora says that there are twin springs at the foot of the high knob that never fail and that the water is always cold.

Another high point is called Wolf Pen Knob. Some of the old settlers built a pen and put meat in it. Wolves would come and jump down in the pen and could not get out.

On top of the high knob of Mordicae there is a pine tree and one can take a field glass and see Owingsville, Maysville, Cincinnati and other towns.

This is one of the large areas where the people have left. At one time it was the busiest and best known part of the county. In the district lived Judge Oscar McKenzie who served as county judge and as sheriff. Dan McKenzie, one of the best promoters of timber and sawmills; S. B. Reese who married Dan McKenzie's daughter, Gertrude McKenzie. Mr. Reese was head of the timber and lumber industry in that section. John McKenzie, who now lives at West Liberty, was a deputy U.S. Marshall. He is now retired. Mrs. Hannah Lewis, the daughter of Frank Fannin, was born and reared in the district. Her son, Clyde Lewis, is now dean of the college at Ashland.

Albert Webb taught school at Mordicae more than fifty years ago. His wife was Myrtle Lemaster who was born and raised in the district. They later went to Oklahoma and Mr. Webb became a leading businessman at Stillwater. Dr. A. P. Gullett, West Liberty dentist, taught school at Mordicae. He has four sons who are doctors.

Today this district is almost deserted. The land is owned by persons who do not live on it. Only one or two live on it and own their homes: Frank Shaver owns part of the Oscar McKenzie farm.

Gon Walsh lived at the mouth of the creek and also operated a store and had a post office. Called Godey, named after Sam Godey, an old Civil War veteran. The wife of the writer is his daughter.

All this region is rough and covered with scrub oaks and underbrush. The larger trees have recently been cut for lumber. The whole area of Mordicae, Indian Creek, Straight Creek and Rush Branch form a continuous forest of four or five thousand acres. No one lives on it. I think that Drew Evans' heirs and some people in the east own part of it. The remainder is owned by Stacy, Gardner and Jones of West Liberty.

This would be a fine place to stock with deer and native grouse. It might be that some of the foxes should be eliminated so rabbits could live here with the quail and other wild life.

Rush Branch

Rush Branch is a stream flowing into the Elk Fork about three miles from West Liberty. Forty years ago a large lumber mill was located at Lenox about a half mile up the creek from Rush Branch. A railroad was built from Redwine through the mountain to Lenox and a branch of it was built up Rush Branch to haul logs and coal. Luther Adkins now lives at the mouth of the branch and there remains a stone butment near his home where the railroad crossed the creek. Luther now owns several acres, and Charley Kelly lives near the mouth and owns a large farm. Most of the remainder of the creek belongs to heirs of Drew Evans.

I left my car at the mouth of the stream and with my gun started hunting up the hills. Not very far from the mouth of the branch a squirrel jumped up on a beech tree. I slipped a few feet up the hill while it was barking and I shot. The squirrel fell and rolled down the hill to near where I stood.

I went on up the stream to the forks of the branch where at one time a large dwelling stood. It is gone, and strip mining has taken the place of tunnel mining. I saw where the powerful machinery has torn away rocks and trees and pushed them down the cliffs leaving fine canal coal. In some places it must be six or seven feet thick. It does not appear that much of the hill has been moved and has left the coal showing.

It may be that some day tunnel mines will take out the rest of the coal of which there must be thousands of tons yet to mine. This is perhaps the finest canal coal in the world. Some of it is now hauled in trucks to towns in Northern Kentucky and Southern Ohio.

I saw a sign at the highway which pointed to the coal and the price was $6 per ton.

There is a lot of land up this creek and no one lives in the area. I hunted up one of the branches that heads next to North Fork. It was wild and gloomy. Going up the branch near the head of the stream, I saw some bear tracks. I followed them for some distance, keeping a careful watch. I am sure there are some bears in this region. Luther Adkins saw them some time ago. So did Jeff Williams.

As I came back late that evening I met Major Gardner and his nephew, Billy Gardner. They had guns and dogs. Major killed a rabbit.

A Fine Farming Section

One morning I crossed the river at Ollie Day's on the swinging bridge and went up the hill, the ridge between Jones Creek and the river.

This is one of the finest scenes in Kentucky. You can look across the river and see the top of the

Old Timers Used
To Trap Turkeys
On Turkey Knob

hill where Norman Sheets has stripped coal, and the deep bluff under it to the river.

Looking up the river, you can see the Gordon Ford two miles away where the big catfish stays. (Some think it has been caught but I believe it is there under the cliffs.) In the bend of the river is the old Easterling farm where Gaylord Wallen now lives. There are wide bottoms of corn and grass, and a road has been built from the Gordon Ford to his place. Up the river is "Greasy" Williams' farm which has fine bottom land and is a good place to hunt squirrels. One cannot imagine the fine farm land in this valley unless they stand on top of the hill and look across to Ollie Day's place and up the river to Jesse Marion Williams and Walter Franklin's farms.

I must have walked at least a hundred miles hunting, since I visited my old home community in the late summer. I have killed about a dozen squirrels and have seen other wild animals and the tracks of bears and foxes and pheasants. I have noted their paths through the woods and to their dens.

I have gone alone because I believe that we can profit from nature and the wonders of creation when there is nothing else to see or hear.

BLAZE

(By Mattie Bishop)
Nov. 25—Rev. and Mrs. Oliver Wilson of Germantown, O., were here to attend the funeral of Mrs. Willie S. Lewis and were Friday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Lewis and made a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Mose Bishop. They also visited Mrs. Wilson's sister, Mrs. Ella Blair of West Liberty.

Mr. and Mrs. Luster Bishop took their little son Ronny to Sandy Hook to have dental work done Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Bishop and daughter, Avenell Lewis and children were last week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. Claud Lewis. Avenell and children spent most of their visit with Mr. and Mrs. Clay Lewis of Zag.

Mr. and Mrs. Ishmal Howard and Mrs. Mose Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. Luster Bishop attended the funeral of Mrs. Willie S. Lewis at Zag Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Brown and daughters and Mrs. Josie Brown of Louisville are spending some time here at their farm while Emerson is laid off of his work. Mrs. Emerson Brown and daughter Janie spent a few days with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Woody May at Woodbend. Mrs. May has been on the sick list.

Dennis Lewis and Mose Bishop, who have been ill for some time, remain about the same.

Most all the farmers in this community have their tobacco on the market.

The only 1958 car that offers more of everything you want...
yet is priced lower than in '57

58 FORD CUSTOM 300
NOTHING NEWER IN THE WORLD

Here's great news! While prices of 1958 cars of other manufacturers are up, the price of Ford's exciting new Custom 300 Series is down. A brand-new 58 Ford Custom 300 with all of its exciting new styling and engineering advances is priced lower than a '57 model, similarly equipped!

World approved styling. A Custom 300 brings you styling that is dramatically new. With its Homecombined grille, Slipstream roof, Deep-Sculptured rear deck, and Safety-Twin headlights and taillights, Ford styling drew admiring glances from Paris to Saigon... yet it's yours now in any 58 Ford Custom 300 without extra cost!

New handling ease. Slide behind the wheel of a Custom 300 and you'll soon discover just how much fun driving can be. Notice how smoothly it handles. That's Ford's new feather-touch Magic-Circle steering, the next best thing to power steering.

New riding comfort. Notice, too, the solid comfort of your ride. That's Ford's easier acting front and rear suspensions. They soak up the bumps before they reach you.

Thrifty, new engines. You have a wonderful choice of new, more efficient power plants... designed for real gas-saving economy plus greater performance. Six or V-8, they give you more power, smoother power, from less gas!

Priced as much as $50 lower. A comparison of manufacturer's suggested retail delivered prices shows that a 58 Ford Custom 300 is priced as much as $50 less than the same model for '57. You'll wonder how Ford can offer so many of the things you want in a car priced so low. One big reason: Ford gives you more car for less money because Fords sell more.

See and drive a Custom 300 and we believe you'll agree that these Fords give you more real value for your car-buying dollars than any car on the American road today.

District Forestry Meeting Set In West Liberty 5th

The Division of Forestry will hold its Morgan County Forestry Promotional meeting at the Morgan County High school in West Liberty, Thursday, Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. Leading farmers and businessmen are urged to attend this meeting. Forestry is important economically to Morgan county and West Liberty and can become even more important.

This is the first meeting of this type to be held to inform the leaders of Morgan county of their Kentucky Division of Forestry and the importance of forestry to Kentucky. There have been meetings in the past but only those people primarily engaged in forestry attended. Many times it is the outside observer who can best point the way and provide the support for more and better activities.

There will be ample opportunity for questions and discussion, pro and con, to bring out the good and the bad of the Division's present positions.

MAMED FOR SEA CAPTAIN
Lawrenceburg, Anderson county, was named for Capt. James Lawrence, commander of the "Chesapeake" whose last words were "Don't give up the ship." First settler was a Dutchman named Coffman, who arrived in 1776 with his family from Western Pennsylvania. He built a double log cabin, called Coffman's Station which served as a stopping point between Harrodsburg and Frankfort.

if your husband had to do this today...

... guess what he'd do tomorrow!

If your husband had to take down the family wash every time it rains — and then put it all back up — he'd soon buy an electric clothes dryer!

Since things don't work that way, why not explain your problem to him? Maybe he hasn't even thought about it!

explain... how heavy wet clothes are, and how you have to wrestle them out to the clothesline, basketload after basketload... week after week... month after month.

explain... how your back aches after you hang out the wash... bend and straighten... bend and straighten... over and over and over again.

explain... the nuisance of keeping up with clothespins, wiping clotheslines clean and tightening them when they sag.

explain... how much smoother and flatter each piece is when it comes from the dryer... that some pieces such as towels don't even have to be ironed, and all can be ironed without sprinkling.

If you do, chances are you'll soon own a bright new electric clothes dryer. And he'll be just as proud as you when that clothesline comes down, to tell the world that your family is modern — Living Better Electrically!

"ALMOST, BUT NOT ENOUGH" is our verdict on how close competitive cars have come to matching the Swept-Wing 58. Take style. Other new cars are "almost" as low in inches, but still seem high and boxy in looks. Some of them are "almost" going to fins, but not enough to really make a difference. Then take performance. None of the other 1958 cars have anything to match the sway-free, dip-free, vibration-free ride of Torsion-Aire. (It's standard equipment.) Most of them still don't even have push-button driving! So after you've seen the "almost" cars, come in and drive a Swept-Wing 58. You'll see why we say: They're catching on, but they can't catch up.
